[illegible]

A detailed miniature model of a 19th-century military band marching on a base. The band consists of several musicians in uniform, carrying brass instruments, and a drum major. They are followed by a large drum and a small cannon. The base is inscribed with "VIVE LA RE".

A detailed diorama of a 19th-century battle scene, likely the Battle of Tewkesbury. The scene is set on a raised, uneven ground with patches of grass and dirt. In the center-left, a large wooden cart with four spoked wheels is being pulled by a team of dark horses. Several soldiers in period uniforms are positioned around the cart, some on foot and some on horseback. To the right, a fallen horse and rider are visible, with a soldier standing nearby. In the background, there are more soldiers, a small structure or tent, and a large tree. The overall scene depicts a chaotic battle environment.

Scene includes Artillery Train of the Guard, an Aide-de-Camp and a Chasseur à Cheval

FOREWORD

We doubt whether there is a collector living who has not heard of our world famous "STADDEN MINIATURES".

The technical virtuosity and penetrating of the artist have combined with the scholar's eye for detail to establish them as the outstanding military miniatures of our time. Add to all this painting and grouping of impeccable excellence, and it is little wonder that our miniatures have held their position as the most sought after figures in the world.

The photographs in this catalogue are, therefore, unique.

Study them with care. These figures are superb works of art, designed and created by master craftsmen, backed by years of experience and the largest military library in private hands. Made only from the finest materials, animated completely by hand with the strictest regard for anatomical detail, and hand-painted with minute accuracy of uniform and equipment, it is not too much to say that they must be seen to be believed. They are not only the best, but indeed the only figures in this field made and painted entirely by hand.

For the collector of these figures, history takes on a richer meaning, and the possibilities are endless. Apart from providing a most fascinating study of the development of military uniforms, they are in their own right decorative pieces of great beauty, to be used sometimes as ornaments, sometimes for reference, sometimes as part of a battle scene, exactly as the owner wills.

In order to grasp the many applications to which they can be put, it is essential to understand the following points most thoroughly, and we strongly advise you not turn a single page of this catalogue until these points are firmly established in your mind.

First of all, you must clearly understand that our figures can be supplied EITHER (a) Fully painted by us OR (b) Unpainted, for the collector who wishes to buy the figure more cheaply and paint it himself.

Secondly. These figures are made in two distinct scales. The photographs in this catalogue deal mainly with the 54 millimetre scale (abbreviated in the catalogue to "54mm").

Thirdly. By virtue of the fact that all our 54 millimetre figures are individually made in every stage by hand, the collector can command from us whatever attitude or pose he desires. (You will find more information on this point in the RULES OF ORDERING incorporated in the price list.)

Fourthly. We also produce a range of 30 millimetre figures (abbreviated in the catalogue to "30mm"). These, being made in fixed positions, are described on separate sheets, and should not be confused with the larger scale.

Fifthly. It is impossible for us to illustrate every figure which we are able to supply, since we can make virtually anything to our customer's specification--figures of any army in the world, at any stage of its history, any aspect of its activity.

It is for these reasons that our figures are sold all over the world--to private collectors, to museums and regiments, displayed on shelves and in cabinets, as part of a diorama of battle scene--in more ways than we have space to describe. "Send me four troopers, 1st Virginia Cavalry, grouped around a camp kettle . . ." " . . . A mounted Colonel of Prussian Hussars 1914, reading a map . . ." " . . . A drummer boy of the Royal Fusiliers sustaining a wounded soldier . . ."--These are examples of what we can expect to receive by any and every post.

In the pages that follow, therefore, you will find soldiers of many sorts; the ones who carried haversacks and bayonets, and the leaders whom they followed, from Atlanta to Zondorf, Fontenoy to Friedland, Leuthen to Lexington, Minden to the Marne. In these pages are frozen many moments from History, whether it be an unnamed private cleaning his rifle by a bivouac fire, or von Seydlitz at Rosbach signalling the Charge.

Study them carefully. But before doing so, please study even more carefully the RULES FOR ORDERING which you will find incorporated in the price list. In this way--and always bearing in mind those five essential points detailed above--you will be able to use to the fullest extent the unique opportunity presented to you by this catalogue: the opportunity of making your selection from the finest military miniatures in the world.

MILITARIA

Quite apart from the creation of our military figures, we are also famous for our wide selection of everything needed by the collector and student of military objects. As stated on the cover of this catalogue, these include original helmets and uniforms, weapons and equipment, books, plates and prints etc. Descriptive lists are issued periodically on request.

We are always glad to advise on stage productions and pageants, displays and films--anything, in fact, appertaining to military uniforms, weapons and equipment, books, plates and prints etc. Descriptive lists are issued periodically on request.

We are always glad to advise on stage productions and pageants, displays and films--anything, in fact, appertaining to military uniforms.

To the many people interested in Military and Naval History, we commend our special range of watercolour drawings,

NEW "D.Y.K." RANGE OF 54 MILLIMETRE MOUNTED FIGURES

Thundering hooves that galloped across the pages of History! The Chevauleger-Lanciers, the Dutch and Polish Lancers of the Garde, the splendid steel-clad Cuirassiers of Austerlitz and Ulm . . . hitherto, our mounted figures of these superb horsemen have been outside the range of the average collector.

Now, thanks to a new method of production, any one of our customers can build up a collection of Napoleon's cavalry in troop, squadron, and even Regimental strength.

The figure is supplied in kit form, the rider complete, the horse and saddle furniture in parts. When assembled and painted by the collector, the result is a magnificent mounted figure, far superior to many other models which are being sold at five times the price.

Please bear in mind that these figures, which are designed mainly for sale as unpainted, unassembled kits, can also be supplied either (A) Assembled but unpainted or (B) Assembled and fully painted.

Charles C Stadden

12th June 1919 - 12th September 2002

Over the years Charles Stadden produced military figurines in 25mm, 30mm, 54mm, 85mm and 90mm sizes as well as larger sculptures and wood carvings.

He could produce 54mm pewter master figure from scratch in less than a day and a 25mm pewter master figure in a few hours.

Although most well known for military subjects, he produced many other pieces for the toy and giftware trades including sculptures of film and pop stars. He created masters for Subbuteo sports games, Triang Hornby railways and for Scalextric racing cars.

He was just as productive with his artwork. His oil and watercolour paintings adorn the walls of many military museums, offices and private collections. Others have been available as prints, postcards, first day covers and Christmas cards. He has written and illustrated books on military history.

Although he ceased to make figures around 1995, he was still painting watercolours until a few weeks before he passed away at the age of 83 years.
